Summary

Hi, I am Vitaly!

I am a future Frontend Web Developer with a set of soft-skills acquired at my previous places of occupation, such as quick problem-solving, adaptability, teamwork and ability to manage my time efficiently.

As of today, I have worked with:

- HTML;
- CSS;
- Figma;
- JavaScript;
- React;
- Github;
- Node.js (Express.js framework);
- MongoDB.

I had become interested in web development long before I enrolled at Yandex School for a frontend development program, and during my final year in a university it has become clear for me that responsive and adaptive web interface is essential for great user experience, and that I want to be a part of the team behind it. I always enjoyed creating something for other people to use conveniently: I am a web user myself, after all.

I am a passionate web development graduate, and I am looking forward to implementing all my skills "in the field".
